A whānau – two polytechnic students and their three young children were struggling with their budget and transport. Financial and personal issues became too much of a burden for them both and they decided to stop studying and seek employment. Many attempts had been made, but were unsuccessful. Through the Navigator's connections, they were put in contact with a house cladding company and one of the students started the following morning. They have been asked to become a partner in the company to assist with the bookwork, gaining practical experience in their area of study - business administration.
